Such a run might have been aided by the disorganisation of the Labor Party, but it is now beginning to look a little rocky itself. The Progress Party is urging the Prime Minister to help fix this to his party by letting it have a run at governing the country for at least one term. That would mean the same Liberal Party minus Julia Gillard and any other substantial piece of the power that she holds. It is rumoured that it is possible, but unlikely, that any of the state Liberal parties may be forcibly merged with the federal Liberals if the party is to be headed by a former treasurer. Possibly the most heartening (and unexpected) scenario for the Liberals is that of someone very different to Julia Gillard as leader. That hypothetical person may be someone currently not getting a lot of media attention, but once had - a female with multiple previous roles in politics. That female is none other than Minister for Women Senator Julie Bishop. And, now, so is Ms. Bishop without an almost certain position as Leader of the Liberal Party
